

Community Guidelines

What types of discussions and content are acceptable on Coinye?

Last Reviewed: 04/010/2015

Coinye is a company that aims to put its members first when it comes to making important decisions. Millions of professional conversations and shared insights are being exchanged every day on Coinye. To ensure these discussions help our members be more productive and successful, Coinye has put in place Professional Community Guidelines outlining the types of discussions and content that are acceptable on Coinye, and what may be deemed inappropriate and stopped by Coinye. These community guidelines are intended to provide our members guidance and complement the list of Do's and Don'ts found in the User Agreement governing your use of, and participation in, Coinye's online services.

Be Real. Unlike some other online services, our members need to be real people, who provide their real names and accurate information about themselves. It is not okay to provide misleading information about yourself, your qualifications or your work experience, affiliations or achievements on Coinye's service.

Be Professional. We ask our members to behave professionally by not being dishonest or inappropriate. We acknowledge the value of discussions around professional activities, but we do not want you to use Coinye to shock or intimidate others. It is not okay to share graphic images to shock others, and it is not okay to share obscene images or pornography on Coinye's service.

Be Nice. Coinye shouldn't be used to harm others. Terrorists and those who engage in violent crimes are not welcome on Coinye. It is not okay to use Coinye's services to harass, abuse, or send other unwelcomed communications to people (e.g., junk mail, spam, chain letters, phishing schemes). Also, don't use Coinye's services to intentionally infect others with viruses, worms, or other software that can destroy or interrupt their data or computer devices. It is not okay to interfere or disrupt Coinye's service.

Respect Other's Rights and Follow the Law. We do not want Coinye to be used for illegal activities or to violate the rights of others. Don't use Coinye's services to commit fraud. Before sharing or using someone else's copyrighted works, trademarks, private information, or trade secrets, please make sure you have the legal right to do so.

Respect Coinye's Rights. Please don't violate the rights of Coinye. You can find more information about what this means in our User Agreement, but put simply, please don't use Coinye's services to wrongfully take data or information. It is not okay to suggest that you are affiliated with or endorsed by Coinye when you are not, and it is not okay to violate Coinye's intellectual property rights.